ADDRESS CORRECTION REQUESTED RUSH — TIME DATED

The UCSF Department of Psychiatry is sponsoring the fifth in the Mind and Medicine symposia series, entitled "New Perspectives on Neuropsychiatry," on Saturday and Sunday, February 22 and 23, at the Mark Hopkins Intercontinental.

A group of outstanding authorities from across the country, including three from UCSF, will explore biological psychiatry's evolution, which has been influenced greatly by the study of neuroscience.

Practicing psychiatrists, neurologists and others working clinically in the mental health and behavioral science field should find the symposium particularly helpful.

UCSF presentations will include:
• "Internist of the Mind." Jonathan Mueller, MD, assistant professor, psychiatry;
• "Mental Status, Cognitive Status and Neuropsychology." Ralph J. Kiernan, PhD, assistant clinical professor, psychology;
• "Neural Mechanisms of Attention: Implications for Clinical Assessment" and "The Quest for an Ideal Image of the Brain." Charles D. Yingling, PhD, associate professor, medical psychology.

For registration information call x67256.

DEADLINE

Deadline for the next issue of Today & Tomorrow, covering the time period Feb. 15-28, 1986 will be Tuesday, Feb. 4, 11 a.m. Please send your copy to Allen Balderson, News & Public Information Services, 532 Parnassus Ave., Rm. 300, x61541 or x62557.

FEBRUARY 1-14, 1986

TODAY & TOMORROW

The first patient has been treated in the new four-bed Adult Bone Marrow Unit which opened January 16 in the Cancer Research Institute on the 11th floor of Moffitt Hospital.

The new unit, directed by Marek Bozdech, MD, treats patients who need bone marrow transplantation as therapy for cancer or genetic and immune system disorders.

It eventually will oversee three types of bone marrow transplant: matched, in which donor and recipient are genetically similiar; partially mismatched, in which there is some genetic similarity and in which bone marrow from the donor must be specifically treated to reduce severe reactions; and autologous, in which the patient donates his or her own bone marrow during the early stages of the disease or during remission and then receives it back when needed.

Initial transplants in adults will involve leukemia patients and will be matched.

Meanwhile, the new three-bed UCSF Pediatric Bone Marrow Transplant Unit (BMTU), which opened in late May, has completed treatment of eight patients. The new unit is connected with the seven-bed Pediatric Intensive Care Unit (PICU). It is the only center in the Bay Area performing the partially matched and autologous bone marrow procedures. Morton J. Cowan, MD, is the director of the pediatric unit.

UCSF has been named a regional genetic center for 10 counties in a new California state screening program aimed at detecting neural tube defects in fetuses. Scheduled to begin this month, the program will require obstetricians and other prenatal care providers to offer pregnant women a blood test for high levels of a fetal substance called alpha fetoprotein (AFP).

The test, which will be available to women between 16 and 20 completed weeks of pregnancy, can alert physicians to defects such as spina bifida, in which the spine fails to close around the spinal cord, and anencephaly, in which most of the brain is missing. Such defects occur in 1 in 1,000 live births in California.

Although AFP is produced in increasing amounts as normal fetuses grow, neural tube defects allow more of the protein to leak into the mother's blood. A positive AFP test may not indicate such defects, however, said Rita Douglas, a UCSF genetic counselor and the regional coordinator for the 10 Northern California counties.

It can also mean normal twins or a pregnancy further along than originally thought. If the initial test is positive, additional screening tests such as ultrasound must be done.

The regional genetic centers will offer help in determining proper follow-up tests and counseling in cases where defects are found. Families learn early enough in the pregnancy so they can consider termination or change the management of the pregnancy and handling of the birth. Some defects can be corrected by surgery immediately after birth so the family would want that birth to take place in a hospital equipped for such surgery.

The UCSF Black Caucus, the Black Students Health Alliance and the Committee for Arts & Lectures are sponsoring several activities in honor of Black History Month. The campus community is invited to attend all events, among them:
• Fri., Feb. 7: "Gospel." Cole Hall. 6:30 & 8:45 p.m. A musical documentary on the top stars of contemporary gospel singing, filmed during an all-star concert at Oakland's Paramount Theater.
• Wed., Feb. 12: Performance by jazz vocalist Ernestine Florence. Millberry Union lounges. Noon. An employee in the UCSF Institute for Health Policy

NEWS BRIEFS

Studies by day, Florence performs in Bay Area cabarets at night. Her repertoire includes favorites by Duke Ellington, Ma Rainey and Dinah Washington.

For a listing of all events contact Rita Bishop, x62757.

A special program on AIDS transmission and issues related to the health care work place will be held in Cole Hall on Thursday, February 13, from 12:30 to 2 p.m. and repeated on Friday, February 14, from 3 to 4:30 p.m.

The presentation will be by Julie Gerberding, MD, chief medical resident at SFGH and principal investigator for a study on AIDS transmission and health care workers.

A film made at SFGH and a slide presentation will bring the audience up to date on the most current findings on AIDS transmission.

All staff employees are urged to attend. The program is sponsored by the office of the Vice Chancellor for Student and Personnel Services.

The UCSF Department of Physical Therapy is sponsoring an open house, "It's More Than You Think," Thursday, February 27, from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in L 123.

The campus community is invited to attend and learn more about what the department has to offer. Demonstrations will be given on correct sitting posture, proper stretching for athletes and patient therapy techniques. Refreshments will be served. For more information call Margaret Duffy, x61716.

Millberry Union's PRO Recreation is sponsoring a new "Totally Fit" exercise program at SFGH beginning Monday, February 3. Held in Room 7E12, the program offers four sessions to choose from: Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings; Monday and Wednesday evenings; Tueday and Thursday mornings; Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Fees are $24 per month for two classes per week or $36 per month for three classes per week. For further information call Craig Ishida at 821-5400 or Pati Kuziomko at x61800.

UCSF donated some $18,000 over last year in the recent United Way Campaign, bringing the total UCSF contribution to some $150,000. The final results showed that the campus held steady with the previous year, ending with an overall participation rate of 31 percent.

The competition was tough, but the School of Nursing never lost the lead over the other three schools, finishing with a participation rate of 51 percent. Dentistry came in second with 36 percent, Pharmacy third with 24 percent and Medicine fourth with 20 percent.

In the contest between Hospitals and Clinics and campus employees, Hospitals and Clinics finished with a narrow lead—25 percent—over campus employees with 23 percent.

Trophies for winning participants were presented to both the School of Nursing and Hospitals and Clinics at the campus holiday party.

Chancellor Krevans and Dean Styles, chair of the campaign, expressed their thanks to all who gave to the UCSF United Way Campaign.

Minority students interested in applying to medical school are invited to attend a one-day conference at UCSF on Saturday, February 8, in Room HSW 302.

Administrators, faculty and students will discuss current medical school admissions trends, requirements, the application process, tests, interviews and financial aid. UCSF faculty will give an overview of the campus and describe its admissions and application process. The conference will include mock interview sessions. Representatives from other medical schools also will be present.

The conference, sponsored by the UCSF Health Sciences Special Services Program and campus minority medical student organizations, is free and open to all Northern California minority students interested in applying to medical school.

For registration information, contact Bilal Shabazz, assistant dean of students, Health Sciences Special Services Program, at x64373, or write him at 1322 Third Avenue, SF, 94143.

In response to the Mayor's Task Force on Safety Belts and the new state law which became effective January 1, the campus is starting a Safety Belt Program. Organized by David Bracker, community health programs manager, Office of Public Service Programs, the UCSF program will include a bumper sticker campaign, posters around campus and affiliated locations, window stickers on all UCSF vehicles and permanent signs on all exits from UCSF garages reminding people to "buckle up."

Cell biologist Mortimer M. Elkind, PhD, professor and chair, radiology and radiation biology, Colorado State University, will deliver the first Harvey M. Patt Memorial Lecture, entitled "Fundamental Cellular Radiobiology and its Role in Radiology," on Friday, February 14, at 2:30 p.m. in Room HSW 303.

Internationally renowned for his work in cellular radiobiology, Elkind is the winner of several prestigious awards, five of which have national significance: the 1984 Failla Memorial Award, Radiation Research Society; 1983 Gold Medal, American Society of Therapeutic Radiologists; 1980 Arthur W. Erskine Award, Radiological Society of North America; 1977 L.H. Gray Medal, International Commission on Radiation Units and Measurements; and the 1967 E.O. Lawrence Memorial Award, US Atomic Energy Commission.

Patt served as director of the Laboratory of Radiobiology and Environmental Health from 1964 until his death in 1982. An expert in radiation biology, he had received recognition here and abroad for his many achievements, in particular for his study of the physiological consequences of radiation exposure.

A plaque in Patt's memory will be dedicated following the lecture, in the Laboratory of Radiobiology and Environmental Health, located behind the School of Nursing building.

In order to help the campus avoid conflicts in scheduling important events, the News & Public Information Services Department is starting a new service this month—a computerized calendar of events—listing all campus-wide activities, hopefully as much as six months to one year in advance. It is suggested that all faculty, students and staff call x61541 when thinking about scheduling an event to see if anything else has been scheduled for that date. Please note that in order to reserve campus conference rooms and auditoriums, it still is necessary to call Millberry Union at x62571, Room Reservations at x64436, Faculty/Alumni House at x64723, or the individual school or department.

The School of Dentistry has been selected as one of 21 institutions from across the country to participate in the Pew National Dental Education Program, a five-year project designed to assist dental schools in keeping pace with the dramatic changes occurring in the health care and dental health environment.

Under the program, the dental school will receive a two-year, $92,000 grant to incorporate strategic planning mechanisms into the management process.

"Through the Pew program, we expect to greatly enhance the range of leadership and management skills that already exist in our school," said Dean John C. Greene. "Our top priority is to establish a planning council involving faculty, students, staff and outside consultants, with a two-fold charge: to examine the factors affecting the dental profession and dental education, such as changes in disease patterns, dental care utilization and provision, dental science and technology, and decreasing applications to dental schools, and to propose responses to these changes."

HONORS & AWARDS

Malcolm Watts, associate dean, School of Medicine: Named new editor of Mobius, the journal of the Alliance for Continuing Medical Education and the Society of Medical College Directors of Continuing Medical Education. He replaces Lucy Ann Geiselman, who began the publication in 1980.

Zena Werb, professor, Laboratory of Radiobiology & Environmental Health, radiology, anatomy: Invited 1986 Mildred Trotter Lecturer, Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis.

Richard B. Odom, professor & vice chair, dermatology: Elected president-elect, American Academy of Dermatology.

Anselm Strauss, professor, social & behavioral science, School of Nursing: Received the George Herbert Mead Annual Award, Society for the Study of Symbolic Interaction.

Robert S. Wallerstein, professor & former chair, psychiatry: Author, Forty-Two Lives in Treatment (Guilford Press, NY, 1986).

IN MEMORIAM

Charles T. Hayden, '26 School of Medicine. An Oakland obstetrician and gynecologist for some 51 years, he came to UCSF in 1933 as an assistant professor, ob/gyn. In 1943 he left to become a commander in the US Navy Medical Corps in World War II and resumed his private practice in Oakland in 1946. The family prefers memorial contributions to Merritt Hospital or to the memorial fund of the Pacific Coast Obstetrical and Gynecological Society, 1145 Broadway, Seattle, WA 98122.

Bernard J. Tobin, senior mechanic & plumber, physical plant. He came to UCSF in 1977.

An accreditation team from the Western Association of Schools and Colleges will be on campus Tuesday to Friday, February 11 to 14. UCSF already has submitted an institutional self-study to the Association's Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities. Copies of the study are available in the UCSF Library, Room S 257.

Members of the campus community will have an opportunity to meet the accreditation team and voice any opinions on pertinent issues on Thursday, February 13, at 2 p.m. in Room C 517. For further information call x61883.

Current issues facing nursing will be discussed at a two-day conference on Thursday and Friday, February 13 and 14, at the Mark Hopkins Intercontinental, SF. The conference is sponsored by the UCSF Department of Nursing and the School of Nursing.

Describing the current status of the health care system as it relates to today's nursing leaders and identifying cost effective strategies to enhance excellence in practice are objectives of the conference, according to Carole Viele, UCSF clinical nurse specialist in oncology and cochair of the conference. Brigid Doyle, UCSF clinical nurse specialist in cardiology, is the other cochair.

Speakers will include Dean Margretta Styles, School of Nursing; Director William B. Kerr, the Medical Center at UCSF; Shoshanna Churgin, assistant professor, Program in Health Services Management, School of Public Health, UCLA; Eleanor Claus, president, Alta Bates Hospital, Berkeley; Margaret D. Sovie, associate dean for nursing practice, University of Rochester.

Continuing education credit is available for nurses. For registration information call x62993.
